Now Hens Lay Large Eggs With Designs

WE GROW 'EM BIGGER DEPT.: Now that the excitement and turmoil and work of the election is over (except for the representative race) Timotheus can get back in the saddle again.

Not long ago this department ran an item about Dutch Crest's eggs, which were very big.

The morning after the election Mrs. Clyde Randolph of Harrisburg Route 2 came in with some which besides being large had unusual design.

I weighed the eggs and the largest came to four and a fourth ounces. Next biggest, three and a half ounces, had a peculiar whirly design at one end, as did the third largest, which weighed two and a half ounces.

The eggs were laid by New Hampshire Red hens.

After we wrote an item about Mr. Crest's Pankeyville eggs, the United Press Associations picked up the story and ran it nationally.

The other day I got a letter from a fellow who read the story in Michigan and I guess he's got the champion egg as far as I'm concerned.

Here is what Victor Wells of 619 North Broadway street, Union City, Mich., wrote me:

"Mr. Timotheus Turner
Harrisburg, Ill.
Dear Sir:

"In our local newspaper which is the Battle Creek Enquirer and News and dated April 4, 1956, I noticed an item where a Mr. G. E. Crest had brought to your office four large eggs.

"I have one egg that was laid by a White Rock pullet that measures seven and a half inches by eight and a half inches and weighs five and a fourth ounces.

"Anyone can see this egg at our home at any time. We are keeping it refrigerated."

See you later, alligator. I'm headed for Michigan.

HUMOR DEPT.: Here are two stories.

No. 1: The Irishman was relating his adventures in the Amazon jungle.

"Ammunition, food and whisky had run out," he said, "and we were all parched with thirst."

"But wasn't there any water?" his listener asked.

"Sure, but it was no time to be thinking of cleanliness."

No. 2: The young man parked his sparkling new Cadillac convertible by his hotel and started to get out. A kid passing by at the time stopped and, looking up at him in disgust, said: "Okay, stupid, what question did you miss?"

Special Centennial Services May 6-13 at Methodist Church

The First Methodist church of Harrisburg will celebrate 100 years of existence in Harrisburg with a week of special observances beginning Sunday, May 6 and including Sunday May 13.

Committees were named some time ago to perfect plans. Mrs. Eli Lasersohn is general chairman with Mr. and Mrs. John L. Schork and Mrs. C. E. Combe on her immediate committee. Other members of the congregation have been assigned special duties for the week of celebration.

May 6 will be Loyalty Sunday; the minister, Rev. W. L. Cummins, will deliver the sermon. On the following evening a pageant will be presented, depicting the story of the local Methodist church. On Wednesday there will be a fellowship dinner with Mrs. B. E. Montgomery in charge of an old-fashioned pot-luck dinner. Friday evening, Youth Night will be observed with the youth of the church in charge. Bill Skaggs, Bill Bottomley and Jane Lasersohn have been given the directorship of this program. A newly organized youth band is expected to have a prominent part. On Sunday, May 13, the Rev. J. W. Cummins of St. Petersburg, Fla., will be the morning speaker. He is a retired minister who resided and preached in southern Illinois for many years, holding the pastorate at Marion for 13 years.

Mrs. Morris Skaggs, who will be in charge of the historical displays, would appreciate any members of the church or friends who have old pictures, Bibles, song-books, hymnals or other antiquated articles pertaining to the use of the church history to contact her.

Eight-Year-Old Tommy Craggs to Present Organ Melodies Over WSIL

Tommy Craggs, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Craggs of Eldorado, will play a full program of organ melodies on WSIL-TV Monday, April 16, starting at 9:30 p. m.

Tommy, who had his first organ lesson less than two years ago, has appeared in public on several occasions. His first public appearance was Aug. 22, 1955, in the talent contest staged during the annual meeting of the Southeastern Illinois Electric Co-operative. Tommy won second place in the contest, which attracted a large number of entrants.

He has played on numerous occasions for community organizations, such as P. T. A. meetings, minstrels and others. Most of his playing is on the Baldwin electric organ, but he also plays the pipe organ and has played the offertory at the First Baptist church.

Tommy's musical career started May 1, 1954, when he first took a piano lesson, with Mrs. Lou Beck, director at the Eldorado First Baptist church, as his instructor. Five months later he began playing the organ, also with Mrs. Beck as instructor. At the present time he is taking organ lessons from Keith Pierce, Carbondale.

Mr. and Mrs. Vern DeVille, RFD 4, Harrisburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Ira Craggs, 215 West Church street, Harrisburg, are his grandparents.

Sachs Keeps Party Guessing

CHICAGO (U.P.)—Morris B. Sachs kept the politicians guessing today about whether he'll run for governor as an independent.

William H. McDonnell, who managed Sachs' unsuccessful campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor, said Sachs had told an aide to McDonnell that he will file as an independent.

Confronted with McDonnell's statement, Sachs declined comment. But he admitted he is considering the idea and will make up his mind during a two-week Florida vacation he will begin Monday.

"When I get back from my vacation, I will have a story for everybody," the city treasurer and clothier told a reporter.

Would Make Three-Way Race
Sachs would need petitions bearing 25,000 signatures, including 200 from each of 50 counties, to get his name on the November, Illinois ballot.

His entry would make it a three-way race. The others are Republican Gov. William G. Stratton and Herbert C. Paschen, who captured the Democratic nomination from Sachs in a surprisingly tough battle.

State Democratic Chairman James A. Ronan conceded that Sachs probably would take away more votes from Paschen than from Stratton.

Junior High Band
Receives First Superior
Rating in Contest

The Harrisburg Junior high school band, competing yesterday in the district band contest at Benton, received a first superior rating, which is most excellent.

This top rating will entitle the local musicians to compete in the state contest at Herrin May 11 and 12.

The numbers played by the band, which is directed by W. W. Chunn: Majesty of America March, by David Bennett; Punch and Judy, by Morrissey; Westchester Overture, by Gunderman.

U. S. Neutral on Security Council Meeting in Rome

Navy Sends Four
More Destroyers
To Mid-East Areas

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The United States adopted a neutral attitude today on reported Arab proposals that the U. N. Security Council hold a special meeting in Rome on the Middle East crisis.

Informed sources said the United States would prefer to see the Security Council continue holding its sessions at New York. But they said if enough members want a special meeting at some other site, the United States would go along.

The idea of a special session outside New York is being put forward by some Arab circles. They feel New York's large Jewish population makes it a bad site for further discussions of the Arab-Israeli controversy during an election year.

The Navy meanwhile is sending another four destroyers to join the 6th fleet in the troubled Mediterranean. It said the action was taken to "provide a broader base in the area" and to "provide for occasional cruising in the Red Sea and Indian Ocean." As usual, it denied the move has anything to do with the Arab-Israeli crisis.

The Security Council presumably will resume discussions of the explosive Arab-Israeli conflict after the United Nations hears a report from U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld on his current peace mission in the Middle East.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told reporters Friday he had heard reports that a special meeting might be held in Rome. But he refused to say whether he discussed the matter during a rush flight to New York Friday for a talk with Henry Cabot Lodge, U. S. ambassador to the United Nations.

John Smith Suffers
Injuries in Auto
Collision on Rt. 45

John W. Smith, 44, of 126 West Homer street, suffered facial and other injuries but was not hospitalized when his auto figured in a collision on Route 45 at the Sahara 1 crossing at Muddy this morning around 7:30.

Two passengers of a car from Ohio which also figured in the collision suffered minor injuries. Smith reported to state police that he was traveling to his work at the Craggs-DeVillaz store in Eldorado when the crash occurred. He said the Ohio car was in front of him and when he stopped abruptly, it crashed into the rear of the machine.

The Ohio driver, Carl H. Knote, 30, of Chillicothe, said he thought the bus was a school bus. State law requires all vehicles to stop when a school bus stops.

Knote's wife, Roberta, 26, and one of their two children, Kathy, 6, suffered minor injuries.

Plenty of Weight

JACKSON, Tenn. (U.P.)—Ruth Watkins, 360 pounder from Alliquippa, Pa., married W. D. Cowan, 740 pounds, here Friday.

"We met in a phone booth," Cowan said. "She was trying to get out and I was trying to get in."

Volunteer Workers Will Begin Cancer Canvass Monday Evening

Volunteer workers for the American Cancer society fund drive will meet at 5 p. m. Monday at the Education building of the First Methodist church to receive supplies for a house-to-house canvass of Harrisburg.

Lucian Pankey, 1956 drive chairman, reports volunteer workers have been most willing to help in the drive and it is hoped that the citizens of Harrisburg will respond generously when the volunteer workers call.

An educational leaflet, prepared by the American Cancer society, entitled, "Fight Cancer With a Checkup and a Check," will be left at every home. This leaflet should be read by every member of every family.

Mrs. Pankey stated a generous contribution will finance the spread of educational information that may save many lives and will help bring improved medical services to patients already ill with cancer. A checkup will help protect against cancer and a check to the American Cancer society will help others.

The women volunteering in the door-to-door canvass are the following:

Open Verdict in Pulaski Death

MOUND CITY, Ill. (U.P.)—A coroner's jury returned an open verdict in the mysterious death of a Pulaski County tavernkeeper—59-year-old Lester Winchester.

Winchester had been indicted for murder and authorities seeking him to serve a bench warrant found him fatally wounded a week ago today.

The coroner's jury returned its verdict at an inquest here Friday night.

Winchester was indicted for allegedly aiding and abetting in the murder of Clate Adams, another Olmsted tavern owner.

Winchester was found with a bullet found in his head. There were two bullet holes in his car, which was parked near his Olmsted tavern.

Winchester's wife testified that her husband said he would kill himself rather than go to prison. She said he made the statement the night before he was found fatally wounded. He also threatened to kill anyone who tried to arrest him, she said.

Mrs. Winchester's statements were backed up by testimony of Bill Harris, a bartender at Winchester's tavern.

Winchester was an ex-convict, having served part of a term for murder when he was a young man.

Canvass to Show Thornton is Winner Over Giles in Coroner Race

The official canvass of the Saline county vote, started today, will show that James R. (Jimmy) Thornton of Carrier Mills was nominated for coroner on the Democratic ticket instead of Aubrey E. (Red) Giles of Eldorado.

Reason, it was learned, is that a 100-vote error was made in Harrisburg Precinct 11. It was an error in copying off the totals on a sample ballot to supply unofficial figures to the county clerk's office and to The Daily Register, two places where the votes were compiled for the county as a whole.

It was an honest mistake, it was learned, and happened this way: The vote was supposed to have been Giles 55, Thornton 59 and James B. Woolard 53, but in copying the figures onto the ballot the Giles figure was put down as 155. Thus the total vote for coroner was considerably more than the total Democratic vote in the precinct.

The total unofficial vote was given on Wednesday as Giles 1,570, Thornton 1,532 and Woolard 1,110. Taking the 100 votes off the Giles total would make the count, still unofficial, Thornton 1,532, Giles 1,470 and Woolard 1,110.

Thornton, Carrier Mills funeral director, thus will oppose Elmer M. Gibbons, Harrisburg incumbent, in the November general election.

Wm. M. Joyner Rites
At Golconda Sunday

The funeral of William M. Joyner, 84, Brownfield, who died early Friday morning in the Rosiclare hospital, will be Sunday at 2 p. m. at the Rottmann funeral chapel in Golconda. Rev. David Troutman of Metropolis will officiate and burial will be in the Sheddville cemetery.

No Change in Sullivan- McCormick Race

There was no change today in the red-hot race between Dale Sullivan of Harrisburg and C. L. McCormick of Vienna for representative on the Republican ticket.

It had been announced that the Johnson county canvass would start at 2 p. m. yesterday but it was postponed until Monday. Johnson is McCormick's home county.

The Gallatin county canvass was completed yesterday and there was no change from the unofficial figures for Sullivan and McCormick.

The Saline county canvass started today around 10 a. m. The election board consisted of County Clerk Don B. Garrison, Chairman Steve Mitchell of the Saline County Democratic committee and Secretary Dowe Robinson of the Saline County Republican committee.

The boards this time are set up under a new law. Formerly the law called for justices of the peace to serve on the board.

A call to Marion revealed that the important canvass of the Williamson county vote would start Monday.

World's Most Powerful Ship, 60,000-Ton Carrier Saratoga, Joins U. S. Navy

NEW YORK (U.P.)—The USS Saratoga—the world's largest and most powerful ship—joins the United States Navy officially today in commissioning ceremonies at the New York Naval Shipyard in Brooklyn.

Rear Adm. Roscoe H. Hillenkoetter, commandant of the 3rd Naval District, will commission the 60,000-ton aircraft carrier in the presence of Secretary of the Navy Charles D. Thomas at 3 p. m. as a flight of Navy planes sweeps over the ship. Capt. Robert J. Stroh of New York will immediately assume command of the 207 million dollar vessel.

Mayor Addison Mallory of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., presented a silver battle centerpiece to the ship that had been given originally to the former aircraft carrier Saratoga by that city. The old Saratoga—the fifth American naval vessel of its name—was sunk as a test vessel in the 1946 Bikini atom bomb tests.

The Saratoga, which was christened last October, will begin its sea trials May 14 and is expected to join the fleet later this year for regular duty. It is the second of five giant carriers of the Forrestal class ordered by the Navy for the critical demands of jet warfare.

Outmeasuring the Forrestal by three feet, the Saratoga has four steam catapults that can launch four interceptor planes a minute, space for 100 planes including those carrying nuclear weapons, equipment for providing oxygen for its own jets, and a flight deck angled to the left to facilitate land-

Hint Triple Action
As President
Meets with Benson

By MERRIMAN SMITH

AUGUSTA, Ga. (U.P.)—President Eisenhower met today with Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson to discuss the farm bill, which the chief executive already has decided to veto.

The United Press learned here today that Mr. Eisenhower has taken the politically-fateful decision to veto the farm measure next week and will back up his action with a first-person report to the American people via radio and television, probably next Thursday night.

Benson, who flew to the President's vacation retreat here Friday night, met with Mr. Eisenhower at 8:15 a. m. for a two-hour conference in the President's small office over the pro shop of the Augusta National Golf Club.

Administration sources in Washington hinted that Mr. Eisenhower may be preparing a triple-punch reply to the challenge of the Democratic backed and politically explosive farm bill.

He would veto the measure, these sources said. At the same time he would boost the farm price supports moderately to sweeten the veto. And if Congress failed to pass a new farm bill more to his liking, he would call a special session after the political conventions in August.

The Washington sources said that any decision to raise price props above present levels under the administration's flexible support program doubtless would include wheat and corn—the two big crops in the politically-important Midwest.

Benson arrived here with True D. Morse, the deputy agriculture secretary, and Kevin McAnn, the President's chief speech writer.

Benson's own future conceivably could ride on the President's decision to sign or veto the measure. The GOP farm program under the secretary has been assailed by Democrats who regard the bill passed by Congress, over the administration's opposition, as a repudiation of Benson.

Tips on Traffic Safety

By
CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

Improved highways in the state now allow Illinois motorists to travel at higher speeds while maintaining a safe rate of speed. However, there are some motorists who attempt to travel at speeds designed for superhighways when they are motoring on secondary roads.

When no speed limit is posted the motorist must rely on his own judgment as to how fast he should travel while keeping his vehicle at a safe speed. Conditions on an open, four-lane highway may call for a certain top safe speed, but the same conditions on a two lane road would demand that the motorist keep his speed well below that figure.

ADJUST YOUR SPEED
TO ROAD CONDITIONS

Braking distance, and the distance necessary to safely pass another vehicle are but two of the many factors to be taken into consideration while maintaining a slower speed on secondary roads.
It is up to the motorist many times to decide the top speed he may safely drive at to protect his life and the lives of others.

"Rules of the Road" booklet will be sent to you free upon request.

Early Growth of Winter Wheat Is Disappointing

SPRINGFIELD — Cool, dry weather over most of the state has resulted in disappointing early growth of winter wheat, the State Federal Crop Reporting Service said today.

The crop service said, however, that few crop losses were reported during the winter from freezing or heaving of the soil.

Crop conditions remained dry over most of the state despite scattered rainfalls over the past week. About 69 per cent of the service's correspondents reported shortages of soil moisture with 29 per cent reporting adequate water and 2 per cent reporting a surplus.
The service said about 85 per cent of the spring oat crop has been seeded, and nearly 60 per cent of the plowing for the 1956 corn and soybean crop has been completed.

Peach trees in southern Illinois have reached full bloom, and apple trees have begun to show pink in their buds, the crop service reported. Prospects for a good 1956 crop were considered bright.

Final Date April 30 To Apply for Incentive Payments on Wool

The final date for filing applications for incentive payments on wool shorn on or after January 1, 1955, and sold during the marketing year, April 1, 1955, through March 31, 1956, or on lambs and yearlings also sold during the 1955 marketing year is April 30, 1956.

Producers must make application for payment on eligible shorn wool or lambs and yearlings not later than 30 days after the end of the 1955 marketing year which is the close of business April 30, 1956.

Producers who sell shorn wool or lambs after March 31, 1956, are not eligible for payment under the 1955 program; however, they will be eligible for such sales under the 1956 program.

SIU Country Column

By Albert Meyer
Tractor operation is one of the larger production cost items on the farm. Consequently, in this period when farmers are hard pressed to get a profit, any possible savings in production costs should not be overlooked.

An agricultural engineer at Southern Illinois University says it sometimes is possible to save several dollars on fuel by checking up on storage facilities and getting the tractor motor in good operating condition.

Because the rush season is nearly at hand, a few hints may be passed along profitably.

First, check the fuel storage facilities for leaks. Even slow seepage will add up to gallons of fuel lost during a season. Above-ground tanks easily may be observed for leaks but if underground storage is used the farmer would do well to measure the fuel accurately at periodic intervals to see if any is being lost. Shade is needed for above-ground tanks to cut down evaporation losses.

Some persons may get careless in transferring fuel from storage tanks to the tractor. If cans and funnels are used for this purpose the farmer ought to avoid spillage —either from carelessness in pouring the fuel, or from leaky cans and funnels. Any leaky equipment ought to be repaired or thrown away. A storage tank equipped with a good hose or pump is best.
Avoid over-filling the tractor.
Leaving some expansion space in the tractor tank and having a tight fitting tank cap will help reduce fuel losses.

Chances for waste still are great after the fuel is in the tractor.
Here the loss may not be so obvious to the farmer but it may add materially to his costs.

Fuel lines, connections, and the carburetor should be checked for visible leaks. These may be repaired with little difficulty.

The farmer also needs to get the engine in good operating condition to obtain fuel economy. This means that the valve system, the ignition system, and the carburetor must be properly adjusted. A faulty ignition system alone may cause fuel consumption to go up as much as 10 to 20 percent. A rich carburetor setting may waste anywhere from two to five gallons of fuel per day of operation. Simple mathematics will show that these losses would pile up useless operating costs.

A dirty air cleaner on the tractor may have about the same effect as excessively using the carburetor choke — meaning wasted fuel.

Here are a few other hints for getting more power out of the fuel used.

Keeping the engine temperature between 160 and 180 degrees as much of the time as possible when using gasoline for fuel is most economical. If heavier fuels are used, the temperature ought to run higher.

Keep the tractor loaded near its rated capacity. If the engine is running at only half load, it is less efficient.

Avoid letting the engine idle for long periods. Shut it off when not working. However, if the engine is hot, it ought to be idle for a minute before being shut off.

Here are additional suggestions for reducing tractor operating costs:

Study the operator's manual. It will give valuable information on adjustments and good operating procedures.

Allow only clean air, fuel and oil to enter the engine. Check oil filters and screens, and service the air cleaner and breather caps.

Get peak performance from the ignition system by using the correct spark plugs, cleaning and adjusting the plug gap when neces-

Cage System for Laying Hens Should Be Studied

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Southern Illinois farmers with laying poultry flocks ought to study their individual circumstances before changing from conventional housing to a cage system for laying hens, says R. D. Creek, Southern Illinois University poultry specialist.

A keen interest in the cage system for laying hens has developed in the poultry industry. The system has advantages as well as disadvantages, Creek says.

One important advantage in the use of cages is that non-laying hens are easily identified and promptly may be culled but of the flock. However, in areas with a climate like that of southern Illinois, housing equal to or better than that used for floor pen birds is required for the cage system.
Initial installation costs for cage systems are higher than for conventional housing.

To successfully operate under a cage system the operator must have a continuous source of replacement stock throughout the year so that new layers are available to fill cages from which nonlayers have been removed.

A few years ago flock culling was absolutely necessary, Creek says, but recent reports from random sample tests show that many strains of chickens today are averaging 250 or more eggs annually per chick started at one week.
This means that mortality is low and laying percentage is high.

With these kinds of laying chickens available, he says, the individual farmer needs to consider all phases of the problem in deciding whether or not he can justify a cage and culling system for his own flock.

Contour Farming Will Pay Off in Higher Yields

URBANA — There's at least one case where going around in circles pays off. That's in contour farming, says B. F. Muirhead, agricultural engineer at the University of Illinois.

Research shows that planting around the slope rather than up and down the hill can increase corn, oats and soybean yields 10 to 15 percent. At the same time, contour farming will reduce runoff and protect your land from erosion.

The inconvenience of farming on the contour is probably more imagined than real, the engineer says. In corn, there may be point rows that will prevent check-planting. But checking is fast becoming a thing of the past anyway.

There are a number of sources of help for planning your contour-farming methods. Your farm adviser, soil conservation district technicians, vocational agriculture teachers and county ASC committees are all good sources of advice and assistance.

nally, servicing the battery correctly and replacing wiring when necessary.

Valve clearance ought to be checked at least once per year.

Use the correct grade of good oil in the engine and hydraulic system, changing it according to the manufacturer's recommendations.

Repack front wheels once per year unless they are lubricated by other means. Use the grease gun as recommended. Keep tires correctly inflated and otherwise care for the tractor as if it were the last one to be obtained.

This Week at DIXON SPRINGS

(A round-up of the week's work, activities, and observations at the University of Illinois Dixon Springs Experiment Station near Robbs in southern Illinois, prepared by the Station's staff.)

Care of New-Born Calves

Calving is well along, according to Oakley Robinson, Station herds-man. Oakley expects about 300 calves this season, and each will receive his personal and individual attention. Daily (weekday, Sunday, and holiday) checking, tattooing, dehorning and castrating are musts. Most cattlemen will agree that two weeks of age is the upper limit for dehorning and castrating.
But Oakley finds that getting these jobs done the first day is best, both for positive identification and for ease in catching and handling. After each calf has been dehorned with a caustic, castrated with the elastator or rubber band, and tat-toed with a number, Oakley clips a patch of hair from the calf's hip.
This clipped patch marks the finished job and reduces the task of locating new calves.

Albritten Has Early Calves

Speaking of calving, Clarence Albritten, Johnson county farmer, was just in and reported that his calf crop had been on the ground for some time. Bob Webb, Station superintendent, in summarizing several years of calf records from the Station herd, finds that February and March calves weighed 80 pounds heavier than May calves.
These heavier weaning weights were obtained with identical feeding and management of the cows and calves. It seems to us that an 80-pound bonus on each calf just for arriving early is worth while.

Thinking of Fly Control

Mrs. Abner Field, a Pope county livestock raiser, is a forward-looking woman. At least, last week she was already anticipating flies and their control in her beef herd.
She wanted to take some of the time and work out of fly control and was asking Doc Mansfield, Station veterinarian, about back rubbers.

Detroit's first free, tax-supported school was established in 1842.

Prince Must Learn To 'Roll with the Punches,' Kelly Says

MONACO (UP)—Grace Kelly's father said today he thinks his future son-in-law will have to "roll with the punches" when dealing with the press.

John B. Kelly Sr., a former bricklayer, was commenting on irate Prince Rainier's clash with press photographers Friday.

The photographers' scrambling to snap pictures of the prince and Miss Kelly angered Rainier into barring them from his civil ceremony.

Kelly was asked what he thought of Rainier's recurring troubles with the hundreds of newspapermen who have massed here to chronicle the wedding.

"Well, I guess the prince is going to have to learn to roll with the punches," laughed the husky Philadelphia millionaire.

Something's in the making here. Maybe it's a garden. Maybe it's nothing more than a ditch. But what really counts is that father and son are working together happily. Sonny may be more hindrance than help just now. But, says Dad patiently, "How ever will the boy learn if he doesn't do?"

When you watch, with ebbing patience your child's fumbling efforts to imitate yours, do you ever think about your heavenly Father's patience with you when you are in the wrong?

He's right there, working alongside you too, wanting to show you how to carry on, and staying close by in case you get into trouble.

If you keep in touch with Him through prayer and regular church attendance, you will learn from Him how to live, just as your child learns from you through talking and being with you.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The Courage of The Early Christians'

Acts 4:13-20, 29-31
GOLDEN TEXT: "Lord, behold their threatenings; and grant unto thy servants, that with all holiness they may speak thy word. (Acts 1:29)

INTRODUCTION—Almost every person, at one time or another, as the opportunity to prove his courage. Some folks seem to have more than others. On the battle field, one man proves his courage while another plays the coward. In the athletic games, one man strives in with courage to attempt to score, while another will faint back and away from the opposition. Courage is required in the hospital room, whether you be the patient, or the loved-one of the patient. Courage is required in the presence of sorrow.

Perhaps the place where the most courage is needed today, and the least is shown, is in standing up and being counted for that which is right. The easy thing to do is to compromise. The easy thing to do is to keep silent when the cause of righteousness is being attacked. This, the early Christians refused to do, even in the face of death.

THEY KNEW JESUS
(Acts 4:13-20)

Peter and John went up to the temple one day at the ninth hour to pray, as was their habit. A effer, who had been lame from birth, was there by the temple gate begging alms. Peter said to him, "silver and gold have I none, but such as I have give I unto thee."

What Peter had to give was worth more than silver and gold. He and John had the power of the Holy Spirit to heal and to save men's souls. The miracle was performed. The man was made whole. This was the beginning of trouble for Peter and John and the others. The priests and religious leaders demanded that they stop preaching and performing miracles. Then it was that Simon Peter and the others showed real courage. They said, "which would be right—for us to listen to you or to God? We are going to speak of the things we have seen and heard."

My! what boldness. Peter preached those evil men a sermon. He told them flatly that they had killed the Son of God, Jesus Christ, but that he was now alive. What was more, it was he who was giving them the power to perform the miracles and to preach the Word. Christian people today should be ashamed of themselves for not taking ing courage to speak out against evil.

II THE CHURCH AND COURAGE (Acts 4:29-31)

This council of religious leaders and political stooges attempted to use pressure to hush the mouth of the ministry. When this was done, the whole church was involved.

It would have been easy for them to have compromised. Those early Christians could have said: "Now, we don't want any trouble with the law. Let's take it easy until things cool down, and that way nobody will get hurt." (This is the modern way.) Not so with those early Christians! They were right in God's sight, and they would not keep silent.

These early Christians in that early Church, had one instrument, or weapon to use. It was PRAYER! That is all they needed. Really, friends, that is all we need today. The Queen of Scotland feared the prayers of John Knox more than she feared ten thousand enemy soldiers.

Prayer changes things! Yes, that is true in every realm. It is true for people in every walk of life. It is true for the individual. It is true for the church. Many people, and many churches, are living on cheese and crackers while they could be feasting from the banquet tables of almighty God. Prayer is the answer.

CONCLUSION—As they prayed they were filled with the Holy Spirit, (V. 31). That place was shaken by the power of God. If the Christian people in any community would come together in sincere prayer, their community would be shaken. All the forces of evil can be driven from any community anytime the Christian people take courage and pray. God is as ready to give spiritual power to fight evil today as He was in the early days of Christianity. He waits upon you to exercise righteous courage. He waits upon you to claim His power through sincere prayer.
